THE SINGLE COMB HEAD PERFORATING THE "SHELL" ISSUE AND THE "MAORI HEAD" ISSUE

By Ngaio Giddings

The "Shell" and "Maori Head" issues are apparently perforated by the same type of single comb head, the "Shells" being perforated from top to bottom of the sheet (doctor blade flaws show this is also the direction of printing) and the "Maori Heads" from the right to the left, similarly the direction of printing. It is necessary to remember that the two stamps are the same shape, one with the long side horizontal and the other with the long side vertical. As the sheets are the same size and shape the same machine could be used to perforate them.

It would appear that with the first strike the perforation holes protrude into the top selvedge of the "Shells" or into the right selvedge of the "Heads" and fourteen holes below these, a total of 16 holes. The second strike completes the short side of the stamps with a further two holes plus the corner hole and the remaining 13 holes. The joining places can often be seen along the short sides of the stamps when the two strikes are a little out of alignment. They also show in the top selvedge of the "Shells" and the right selvedge of the "Heads" where they are completely crossed by a perforation strike.

The single comb strike is well illustrated in one block of the 25¢ "Te Hau" stamps from a sheet with the shorter imprint, on the right side of the sheet. The first strike of the comb head was slightly to the right of normal, in fact the main vertical line of perforations runs through the right edge of the yellow on the long sides, leaving no yellow overlap. The next strike is in its normal position with the two extra perf. holes at the right of the second strike. Between the two strikes there is an apparent "blind" perforation of one hole space. This extra space makes all the 10 stamps at the right of the sheet one perf. space wider than the rest of the stamps on the sheet.

To complicate matters, there has been an extra strike vertically of the comb head with a line of perforations running vertically through the middle of all stamps in vertical row nine and double perforations horizontally across the tops and bottoms of the stamps for 16 holes.

"SHELLS" AND "MAORI HEADS" PERFORATIONS (Contd.)

There is a variation in normal sheets that needs explaining. In some of the "Shell" sheets the top selvedge has only two extra perforation holes above the top horizontal row. Those seen to date thus are the 20¢ Shell with blue gum (not the Reprints), all printings of the 30¢ except the first with white gum, the first two printings of the 40¢ (but not the Reprint with one "star"), the second and third printings of the 50¢ (but not the first printing with white gum). In the $1 the two printings are similar. In the $2 examples of both the "two extra holes" type at the top and also of the type with the top selvedge perforated right across vertically occur. These are in the first printing only. The recent reprint without star, but a change of colour in the green, has just the two holes. All the rest of the Shell issues to date have the top selvedge perforated vertically.

All "Shells" sheets seen have the left and right selvages perforated across horizontally. All bottom selvages are perforated vertically.

In the "Maori Heads" sheets all the top selvages are perforated completely vertically as are all the bottom selvages. However, there are variations in the right selvedge. All printings to date (Nov. 1981) of the 25¢ and of the 45¢ have only the two extra perforation holes in the right selvedge, but the 15¢, the 35¢ and the 60¢ have the right selvages perforated completely across. The left selvages are perforated across horizontally.

Perhaps two different single comb heads are being used or are some of the stamps being perforated in a different factory? Explanations would be welcome.

Gums Used Three differently coloured gums have been seen - the colourless leaving the backs of the sheets white, a light grey-blue and a darker blue-green.

20¢ Shell Ngaio reports an offset in yellow in this issue.

Editor's Note: If, as appears certain, perforation of the "Shells" issue is done by the sheet, is it not possible that whether the top selvedge is perforated or not is purely a matter of machine setting before the job is commenced, rather than a completely different machine? The perforations of these "Shells" and "Heads" make an interesting specialist study with features not unlike those of the 1960 Pictorial "Chambon" perforations and the 1961 Xmas issue where one perf. hole (rather than two as in the present issues) protruded into the stamp above, presumably to facilitate even separation of the stamps from the sheet.

NZ NOTE - By WARWICK PATERSONKING EDWARD VII LAND

The rare overprinting on 1d Universal from the Waterlow Plates.

One expert has put the total estimated to have existed of this variety at two percent of the total 100 sheets (i.e. 480 stamps), but my experience of the incidence of examples mint or used would make them even rarer. That is until recently, when Derek Redshaw of our Woking Branch was able to spot a used block of four in an auction, and I sighted another block almost simultaneously in a collection here in New Zealand. A prominent New Zealand collector has a block of four in his collection (one which, incidentally, shows the "stepping" of the overprint between the two groups of 30 stamps overprinted at a time). What all three of these blocks have in common is the very pale "Sage" green overprint which makes them so noticeable. The overprint in most KE VII Land stamps is quite a dark green colour and while it varies a little, never in my experience is as pale on "Royle" plate stamps as those Waterlows mentioned above. All three of these blocks have the same postmark (MR 4 09) rather untidily impressed (see illustration Xmas Newsletter p.12). The block with the "stepped" overprint was, by the way, rejected by an Expert Committee as being "forged overprint - printed on stamps from the wrong plate". (!).

Discovery of a photograph featuring this rare block in the book "King Edward VII Land" by Alexander J. Sefi (1912) rather exploded this erroneous judgement and should place the seal of approval on the other two "Pale Green" overprinted blocks of the three mentioned above. I know of yet another block of this rarity in a collection in England, but cannot comment on its features as I have not seen it. Three of these four blocks were discovered by our firm - not a bad ratio and surely a compelling reason to let CP Ltd look at your collection first if you are considering selling!

MINI COLLECTION LOTS: A RUN THROUGH THE CP CATALOGUE

From a CP album recently acquired. Stamps are displayed on pages mounted in Havid mounts. The pages are in good condition and could be transferred into an existing CP album collection. The Chalou Heads section are all used, but otherwise condition is mint uninged or hinged throughout. The prices are an absolute giveaway!

- 172 (a) Full Face Queens Imperforate six stamps and perforated ten stamps. The 3d imperf and 6d perforated Black-brown are missing, but it is a nice-looking lot. Condition is "intermediate" and the 1d and 1/- imperfs are the scarce printings on Pelure paper. These two alone catalogue at over $4,000. The 4d. Rose is off-centre and has a light marking over the face, but is otherwise in sound condition. A lovely page ..... $350.00
- (b) 1d. Newspaper Stamp, Second Sides This page is complete for these issues and condition is above average with lovely appearance. Total catalogue $500. Eleven stamps ..... $145.00
- (c) 1898 Pictorials Mounted on two album pages and excluding Officials and the re-drawn 6d Kiwi. Twenty-two stamps to the 5/-. ## FULL FACES

One or two selected items of significance.

180 (a)	A2j(3) (SG.98) 2d "NZ" Wmk., Deep Blue Nice lightly marked used - three margins - touching right lower side. Cat. $600 - most attractive	$75.00
(b)	Alm(2), (SG.110), 1d Carmine, star wmk., p.12½ An example of the real Carmine shade which so many collectors find so elusive and hard to identify. Our copy is lightly (if a little untidily) used, but shows the shade to best advantage. Cat. $125	$60.00
(c)	Alm(2), (SG.110), 1d. Ditto Major re-entry Row 19/3 - a beauty too. Shows doubling top margin and "W ZEAL" marking over face, but a good shade and a striking naked eye variety	$25.00
(d)	A2n(3), (SG.114), 2d. Bright Blue, perf. 12½, Plate 2, star wmk. Beautifully centred line perf example with postmark a little over face. The shade is striking and in our experience scarcer than the catalogue price would indicate. "Plate damage" copy	$20.00
(e)	A2n(1), (SG.114), 2d Indigo Blue Marking over face, but an interesting comb perf copy with wide space each side at base between comb perf strikes. The two comb perf heads gauging 12½ were converted to line perfs in 1866 so this example must be of better than usual scarcity. It is from Row 20/4 (bottom selvedge shows with marginal watermark line). Nice item (Note: Observation of the perforations and comparison with the comb head layout prints in Handbook Vol. VI suggests that this stamp was perforated by the "irregular" comb head.	$40.00
(f)	A3d(8), (SG.118), 3d Deep Mauve, perf 12½ Nice well-centred copy. Postmark central, but light and clear (oblit. 20). Lovely clear print	$75.00
(g)	A5h(3), (SG.122), 6d. Dull Red-Brown, perf 12½ Strip of five in commercially used condition. Markings a little untidy, but it is a most unusual piece (line perf). Cat. $200	$50.00
(h)	A2t(7), (SG.138), 2d Orange, perf 12½ "Portion of block letter watermark T.H. SAUNDERS". Clean, clear oblierator centrally, but the stamp is in excellent condition (no faults). Corner shows letter watermark. Superb specialist item (cat. $1240)	$625.00
(i)	A5j(2), (SG.131c), 6d. Pale Blue Irregular compound perf (one side perf 10). Postmark over face - but a scarce item - absolutely guaranteed and intact. Cat. $400	$125.00
(j)	Manuscript Cancellations Without exception stamps of superb shining appearance.
(a)	Alm(1), 1d. Cam-vermillion Appears to be "C.L. - B.N." - origin unknown to us. Stamp is "fine used" - m/s is superb	$50.00
(b)	A2n, 2d Blue (Pl. 2) "Ash" of "Ashburton" (but script differs from p.98 of Vol. III)	$50.00
	Or identified (Lovely stamp)	$40.00
(c)	A3d(8), 3d. Mauve Gorgeous looking stamp with perf fault. London receiving mark and Dunedin m/s (?)	$15.00
(d)	A5h(3), 6d Full Red-Brown "Ash" of "Ashburton" again. Slightly more untidy usage, but m/s clear and good	$30.00

THE 1st AND 2nd PRINTINGS OF THE 25¢ "MAORI HEAD" ISSUES

By Ngaio Giddings

When the second printing occurred with the shorter Imprint it was wondered whether a new cylinder or plate printing the black colour had been prepared or whether the first one had had the Imprint removed and replaced by a shorter one. By studying sheets from both printings it has been found that (a) the cylinders printing red and green were used for both printings. As there are no colour blocks on the selvage it is not certain what other colours were used, remembering that red and green together make brown and probably red and the background colour produce an orange. (b) The first black cylinder or plate was removed and replaced by the second with the shorter Imprint.

(a) Colour flaws (not black) Common to both printings. These are minor.

- Row 2/8 A red dot to the left of "TE".
 Row 5/1 A red dot to the top of the right shoulder.
 Row 5/10 A red dot to the right of the middle point of "W" - this may be partially hidden if the black cylinder is out of register.
 Row 6/1 A green dot at the top left of the right feather.
 Row 6/10 A green dot to the left of the forehead.
 Row 10/6 A green dot below the "U".
 There are probably others, especially in the heads and clothes.

(b) (i) Black printing from the first cylinder with the longer Imprint.Minor flaws.

- Row 6/9 A black dot below and to the right of "HAU".
 Row 7/9 A black dot below "A" of "HAU".
 Row 9/4 A black dot to the left of the top of the "T" of "TE".
 Row 10/10 A black dot above the top of the "z".
 These do not appear in the 2nd printing.

(b) (ii) Black printing from the 2nd cylinder with the shorter ImprintMinor flaws.

- Row 4/9 A larger black dot to the left of the hair.
 Row 5/7 A thin shank join on the second "n" where the top curve meets the left upright.
 Row 6/10 A black dot to the left of the "T" of "TE" at the bottom.
 Row 7/6 As 5/7 above.
 Row 10/3 A black dot to the left of the right stroke of the "N" of "NEW" at the top.
 Occasionally the coloured and black dots vary in intensity.
